

DOCVA

Posted by claudio - 07.03.2008 08h26m in citylife | No Comments

Like a lot of modern cities, Milan is comprised in part of formerly industrial areas which have stood vacant and unused for some time. Thanks to the Municipality of Milan, some industrial zones are being reappropriated and repurposed. On April 8, DOCVA, Documentation Centre for Visual Arts is moving into new spaces at Fabbrica del Vapore. This was literally an old steam factory which is rediscovering a new life as a cultural center focused on creativity and the arts. This multipurpose space is dedicated to fostering the innovation of young creativity. The goal is to create an open lab where creative experiences in visual arts, performing arts, design, architecture, photography, cinema, creative writing and fashion merge.